DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Rowe et al (6,792,615).

As to claims 1-4 and 7-9, note Rowe reference figures 1 and 13-14, discloses encapsulated, streaming media automation and distribution system and further discloses a method and system for transmitting broadcast messages (from Network Operation Center 'NOC' 300) for receipt by specific recipients (Set Top Box 'STB' 452) in a network (figs. 1 and 13-14), the network having multiple interim processing points (Remote Channel Origination Node 'RCON' 500 or Headend 'HE' 450 'HE/RCON 450/500'), comprising the steps of:

generating a broadcast message, encasing the broadcast message in a message in a message envelope for directing the broadcast message to a specific interim processing point (Product Design Integration Distribution 'PDID' 140, fig. 4B and col. 19, line 45-col. 20, line 1+, of NOC 300 'a national control for television' generates and encases plurality of streams in packets 'message' containing address(es) 'header(s)' to a plurality of specific geographical areas or receiving points, HE/RCON 450/500 'interim processing point', figs. 1, 3A, 7, 8, 13-14, and col. 10, lines 33-67, col. 11, line 56-col. 12, line 6 and col. 14, line 45-col. 15, line 26);

transmitting (Transmitter of NOC 300, transmits via satellite, cable, etc., figs. 4B, 9, col. 19, line 45-col. 20, line 13 and line 51-col. 21, line 1+) the message from the message source (NOC 300) to the specific interim processing point or Nodes (Receivers of HE/RCON 450/500, fig. 14 and col. 40, line 47-col. 41, line 1+);

stripping the message (HE/RCON 450/500 processes the receive packets, strips filters, decrypts, etc., before distributing via 'a second transmitter' to specific users or STBs) envelope from the message, and forwarding the broadcasting message from the specific interim processing point (HE/RCON 450/500) to recipients or Client Devices (STBs 452, col. 38, line 66-col. 40, line 1+) associated with the specific processing point.

As to claims 5-6, Rowe further discloses where the broadcast message contains pre-configuration information for the STB 452, which allows STB 452 to acquire at least one of configuration information, platform layer information, control channel information, application information, authorization information and system information (fig. 12 and col. 37, line 39-col. 38, line 1+).

As to claims 10-13 and 16-18, the claimed "a system for transmitting broadcast messages for receipt by specific recipients in a network..." contains the same structural elements of rejected claims 1-4 and 7-9.

Claims 14 and 14 are met as previously discussed with respect to claims 5-6.

Conclusion

3. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Hendricks et al (6,539,548) disclose operations center for television program packaging and delivery.

Boylan et al (6,799,326) discloses interactive television program guide system with local advertisements.

Ellis et al (6,774,926) discloses personal television channel system.
